The President's Page

Gardner-Webb moves on with definite ideals of scholarship, Christian bias, and community service. However, as we progress the lines are tightening and now becoming taut. The fact that we do not have too much trouble securing students may lull us to sleep. The inescapable fact that we may close the school confronts us always. Some of the reasons are the intense competition with colleges and universities to keep well-trained and competent faculty; and the need for equipment, scientific and otherwise, to do the job.

Beyond this is the economic tax burden crying out for junior colleges to assume a great part of the load of increased enrollment. All predictions are for double the enrollment in ten years. These all must come in as freshmen. The most inexpensive part of a student's education is the first two years. So it is my prediction that the junior and community college will go on sweeping the country as the best solution to the enrollment and economic problems of universal education.

Facing that is the trend in North Carolina in private circles to abandon the junior college. This can be seen in the recent action of the Presbyterians. It will likely be obvious in the forth-coming report of the Committee of 25 of the Baptists.

It may be best for our junior colleges to become senior. If so the best way to do so is to make the facilities, faculty, and product of the first two years worthy to be extended to four. This will require much more money, but we can do it if we wish. Now is the time to begin. Watch for developments, or create some.

Twin Feature Planned For Summer School

Summer school operations are expected to take a spectacular leap forward this year, with plans already in progress to add several new courses and introduce an entirely new program of study.

One phase of the summer session will be designed to attract students who have studied during the academic year at other colleges, senior or junior, as well as those who were enrolled at Gardner-Webb. Credits given are fully transferrable and college officials will assist the student in checking transfer of credits to the school of his choice.

The other feature will be teaching of high school and intermediate courses in plane geometry (Math 27), analytic geometry (Math 113), and intermediate algebra. The courses are intended primarily for college students who are seeking a better background in mathematics and those who are required to remove deficiencies in this field to be eligible for advanced studies or graduation and for high school seniors who wish to remove math deficiencies before entering Gardner-Webb or another college.

The college will operate the summer school on a full scale, with Stroup Dormitory for Women and HAPY Dormitory for Men open to boarding students, with resident counselors in each building. The cafeteria will be open, and students will have access to the swimming pool and all summer recreational facilities.

Members of the college faculty and visiting professors from other colleges will teach, with at least 31 courses of study offered. A student may enroll for nine semester hours, or for 10 with special permission from Dean J. O. Terrell, director of the summer school.

The summer session begins June 8 and ends August 8, with classes meeting five days each week for the nine weeks of study. The added courses of study and special feature in mathematics for high school and college students should bring about another record enrollment.

Last summer's registration reached a new record with 140 students enrolled, an increase of 23 over the previous record of 117. Officials are confident the added features should boost this year's enrollment well beyond all previous figures.

ABOUT THE COVER

Elsewhere in the Quarterly is an article explaining the duties and functions of the board of trustees, and on the cover are pictured the three leading officers of the board as seen immediately after their election.

R. E. Price of Rutherfordton, center, was chosen board chairman for 1959. Now in his thirteenth year as a trustee, Mr. Price was first named to a term of service in 1941. At left in the picture is Ralph Roberts, Shelby banking official who was chosen board secretary during his first year as a trustee. The Rev. M. O. Owens, Jr., pastor of First Baptist Church in Lenoir, was elected vice-chairman. He has previously served one term on the board and on the executive committee, and was board chairman in 1957.

ALUMNI BANQUET SET FOR MAY 23; SPECIAL INVITE TO REUNION CLASSES

February is a good time to be making plans for May, especially for such things as the Alumni Banquet which is scheduled for May 23. The hour and other details have not been completed, but will be worked out at a directors' meeting this month.

All former students are especially invited to attend this banquet, this year and every year. This includes every former student, graduate or non-graduate, of Gardner-Webb and its predecessors, Boiling Springs College and Boiling Springs High School.

With Quarterly recipients alone numbering 4,000, a perfect attendance record at the banquet would mean a major operation in preparation and serving of food. Nothing would make college officials happier, however, than to wrestle with this problem for our alumni.

Letters of invitation will be sent to you some four weeks ahead of the meeting date, giving details of the program. Make your plans now to attend, get your reservations in on time, contact your classmates to be sure they plan to join you, and let nothing interfere with your visit. No matter how many attend, you will receive a good meal and the best in fellowship.

Classes in special reunion this year will be those of 1910, 1915, 1920, 1925, 1930, 1935, 1940, 1945, 1950, and 1955.

These may sit together in groups if they wish, although this is not necessary. They will be recognized individually and paid special tribute. Alumni officials emphasize, however, that all former students are urged to attend, and not those in special reunion only.

A highlight of the program will be presentation of an award to the Alumnus of the Year. This feature was begun in 1957, and the recipient that year was Arnold W. Kincaid, '26. Last year the monogrammed silver bowl was presented to the Rev. Leon H. Hollingsworth. This year's recipient, as were the others, will be chosen by alumni and trustee officers, with the name kept secret until the moment of presentation.

President Guy Walker of the Alumni Association, Vice-President Clemon Smith, and the entire board of directors are interested in having a much larger attendance at the alumni banquet than in any former year. Plan now to attend and renew acquaintance with your classmates and with your Alma Mater.

Future Of College And Special Session

Every alumnus of Gardner-Webb will be particularly interested in the special session of the Baptist State Convention set for May 5 in Raleigh, for decisions reached there will have a dramatic and lasting effect on the future course of our college and others in the Baptist family. Whether the college should expand its facilities, whether it will receive the necessary support to do so, whether it should seek to become a four-year institution, all these and other questions are expected to be brought before the Baptists of North Carolina in the special session.

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Fellow Alumni and Students:

During the public ministry of Jesus He spent the major part of His time in training and equipping His disciples for service in His kingdom and in the world. He saw the absolute need of trained leadership. When He wanted a man to become His personal representative to the Gentiles, He touched the heart of a well trained Pharisee by the name of Saul of Tarsus. He took this man and further trained him in His outdoor seminary in Arabia.

Study was a major emphasis in the life of Paul. When his journey was about over upon the earth he said to Timothy, his son in the ministry, "Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." II Timothy 2:15.

Why should we study? First we need to know the truth. Many minds are confused and many strange doctrines have arisen because people did not know the truth. God is truth and we can know the truth as we seek it in His word. We need to know the truth about God's creation and His ownership of all things. In Psalms 24, we are told that "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein." Rather than for man to rule God out and approach things from the scientific standpoint, he should realize that God is the great Scientist and there is no conflict between God and scientific development.

Surely, also we need to know the truth about great spiritual matters. God is love and will save to the uttermost. The world is dying in darkness as it follows after Communism and the other isms of the world. The only solution for our world is the truth of God.

We need to study in order that we might not be ashamed. When God's men and women of old knew God and the things of God and had their souls and lives fortified with the Word of God, they were unashamed and unafraid. They could stand in the face of rulers, executioners, and all the forces of sin and the devil fearlessly. They knew what to say because they knew the truth of God.

Whether or not we have already received a degree from college or are now a student in the pursuit of a degree, let us study that we might know the truth and train ourselves that we might fight the good fight of our Lord Jesus Christ.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES SERVE COLLEGE

Who runs Gardner-Webb College?

Administrative matters are handled by the college president and by members of his staff who are responsible to him.

But Gardner-Webb College is ultimately responsible to the Baptist people of North Carolina, who transact business as the Baptist State Convention. The Convention appoints a board of trustees to act as policy makers for the college. They are given a free hand, but at the same time are reminded that if they operate the college in a manner contrary to Convention principle and policy they are subject to removal from office.

The board of trustees, the official body responsible for operation of Gardner-Webb, are a rotating group of 28 men and women who serve the college for terms of four years each. To be eligible for appointment to the board a person must be a resident of North Carolina and a member of a Baptist church. He must not be a member of any other board or agency of the Baptist State Convention.

Seven new trustees are named each year, replacing those who retire after a four-year term in office. Thus the board is completely rotated every four years. A trustee is eligible for re-election to the board of Gardner-Webb or another institution after being inactive for one year, and many are named for a second or third term. Some have served the college for over 20 years in this fashion.

The board in office has some measure of influence in the naming of new members. They are asked to submit a list of 14 names each year to a committee of the Baptist State Convention. From this list the Convention may appoint seven trustees, sometimes the first seven listed. However, they may, and sometimes do appoint people to the board who were not included on the list.

General officers are elected each November and take office on January 1. They include a chairman, vice - chairman, secretary, and treasurer, all elected by vote of the board members. Committee appointments are made by the outgoing executive committee, which appoints trustees to four standing committees of seven members each. These are the finance, tone and character, public relations, and curriculum committees. The chairman of each committee, the four general officers, and one member at large comprise an executive committee which serves as a "working group" to transact routine matters for the board between meetings.

The full board meets four times each year, in February, May, August, and November. The executive committee meets each month to take care of routine business and to refer major matters to the full board. The various other committees have called meetings when necessary to make studies and prepare reports. Every trustee serves on at least one committee. Although the trustees give many hours of their time, and often have considerable travel expense, they seldom if ever exercise their right to reimbursement of expenses.

The trustees for 1959 include: R. E. Price, Rutherfordton, chairman; the Rev. M. O. Owens, Jr., Lenoir, vice-chairman; Ralph Roberts, Shelby, secretary; and Mrs. Rush Stroup, Shelby, treasurer. Newly appointed members are Mrs. V. Ward Barr, Gastonia; Dr. Ralph Falls, Morganton; Horace Easom, the Rev. J. A. Bracy, Ralph Roberts, and Mrs. Rush Stroup, Shelby; the Rev. M. O. Owens, Jr., Lenoir; R. P. Reece, Winston-Salem; and the Rev. Zeb Moss, Caroleen. Continuing on the board are David L. Allen, Hickory; James F. Cornwell, Lattimore; Clifford E. Hamrick and Dr. W. Wyan Washburn, Boiling Springs; G. B. Harrill, Forest City; J. Ollie Harris and Arnold W. Kincaid, Kings Mountain; the Rev. W. T. Hendrix, Gastonia; Claude S. Hinson and Joe T. Moore, Belmont; Woodrow W. Jones and R. E. Price, Rutherfordton; the Rev. John E. Lawrence, Shelby; John Z. McBrayer, Mooresboro; Dr. W. Donald Moore, Coats; Keener Pharr, Charlotte; Mrs. E. G. Shore, Winston-Salem; Willard K. Weeks, Ridgecrest; and Dr. S. A. Wilson, Lincolnton.

Retiring from the board Jan. 1 were Mrs. O. Max Gardner, Dr. H. S. Plaster, J. L. Suttle, Jr., and D. W. Royster, all of Shelby; John Moore, Asheville; Mrs. Hattie P. Self, Cherryville; and the Rev. Harold White, Spindale.

Nine of the present trustees have served Gardner-Webb as board members prior to their present appointments. They are Easom, Hamrick, Hinson, Kincaid, Price, Owens, Reece, Washburn, and Mrs. Stroup.

Nine board members are Gardner-Webb alumni, including Allen, '24; Falls, '27; Cornwell, '33; Wilson, '32; Moss, '50; McBrayer, '36; Kincaid, '26; Hendrix, '42; and Hamrick, '22.

Former Students Up In The Air

Two Gardner-Webb graduates of some 20 years ago are making a successful career of flying high for Uncle Sam. They began it all by enlisting, along with hundreds of other alumni, at the outbreak of World War II, and chose to remain in service at the war's end.

James B. "Killer" Cain, '40, is a Commander in the Navy serving as a jet fighter pilot and instructor. He is training and operations officer for Carrier Air Group Four at Cecil Field Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla. He holds 24 decorations for service during World War II and the Korean War.

Grover C. McClure, Jr., '39, holds the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the Marine Corps, currently stationed at Atlantic Fleet Marine Force Headquarters, Norfolk, Va. He served as a fighter pilot with the Marines in World War II and as a group leader in the Korean War. Immediately prior to his present assignment he had a tour of duty with Marine Aircraft Group 16 in the Far East.

SPORTS REVIEW

The 1958-59 calendar for the Bulldogs shows both bright and dark spots, with about half the year's activities completed at press time. Coaches Norman Harris and Bob Blackburn are hard at work to make the best record possible, and both express confidence the year will end on a bright note.

Football season saw the Bulldogs win three conference games, lose two, and tie one for second place in the Western Carolinas Junior College Conference. Their overall record included four wins, four losses, and a tie for an even .500 record. They opened the season with a victory over Chowan, followed by another over the Mars Hill Lions. Then came a rougher section with a tie at Lees McRae and losses to Wingate and Georgia Military. Bouncing back, the Bulldogs took clear victories over Mars Hill and Lees McRae, but ended the season on a somber note with losses to Wingate and the Citadel freshmen.

Gardner-Webb placed four men on the all-conference team: End Curt Bruffey, tackle Ed Lohr, quarterback Charles Mantooth, and center Fred Heavner.

Coach Blackburn has found his first year of basketball coaching at his Alma Mater hard and challenging, but in recent weeks his efforts have begun to pay off. For the first time in many years the Bulldogs had not a single experienced man on the hardwood when the season opened. His fast and scrappy team of freshmen lost several thrillers by less than five points early in the season, however, and at press time have gained seven heartening victories, including an all-important conference win over Lees McRae and a solid 77-63 victory over a powerful Furman University freshman team. Along with their steady improvement the Bulldogs are stashing away some valuable experience in such stars of next year as David Ezell, Garland Hamrick, Dal Nanney, Mike Goodman, and Jim Summey.

With temperatures still dipping toward the zero mark occasionally, Coach Norman Harris is at work on the coming baseball season. His Bulldogs have carried off seven conference titles in the last 10 years, so he has an enviable record at stake. He expects to have depth and experience on the pitcher's mound and behind the plate, with three returnees for each spot. Aside from that area the diamond is wide open for newcomers with only one veteran, Dean Jones, casting an eye toward either first base or the outfield. A recent meeting with prospects indicates at least 30 rookies will show up for practice March 18, with a dozen others starting mound practice two weeks earlier.

The new gymnasium has attracted crowds of around 1,000 for several basketball games, and sports enthusiasts agree that a lighted field would be a major boost to the athletic program. A fund for this project which will cost $10,000 now has one-fourth of its goal. The alumni will be a key factor in having the athletic field lighted by football season.

Growth of the college plus our ever-changing economy are reflected in the annual budget figures. From a beginning budget of less than $10,000 in 1907 the yearly figure now passes the half-million mark, and has more than doubled in the past five years.

President and First Lady — President and Mrs. Phil Elliott paused momentarily for the camera after the annual president's dinner given in December for faculty and staff and trustees, together with wives or husbands. They have made the faculty and staff dinner an annual event for a number of years, and for the past four years have been joined by the trustees.

A Family Institution

Gardner-Webb has always been a "family" school, with each year's new students following older brothers and sisters, and often their parents, to the college. Now in its 52nd year, Gardner-Webb has a few "grandchildren" currently enrolled—students whose fathers and grandfathers preceded them at the college.

A recent survey shows one student in four is following in the path of an older member of the family by choosing Gardner-Webb. With some 500 students enrolled, 121 say a parent, grandparent, brother or sister, husband or wife, also attended the school. An additional 103 were preceded by an aunt, uncle, or cousin.

The college is proud of its "family" tradition, and plans to continue its emphasis on close friendships and personal interest which will make its students want their younger brothers and sisters and their own children to make this their school too.

College Yearbook To Press

The 26th edition of the college yearbook went to press Jan. 26, and is expected to be ready for delivery by May 1. The 9 by 12 inch book will contain 120 pages and will feature for the first time a page of natural color. At least four previous editions have had a second color, usually red, but this is the first time for natural color.

The yearbook is edited by Frances Hamrick of Cliffside, with Jerry Jackson of Cramerton as business manager and John Roberts, college publicity director, as faculty advisor.

Gardner-Webb, or rather Boiling Springs College, first published a yearbook in 1934, with Hayden Camp as editor and Felix Hamrick as business manager. It has been published each year since then. Named the Bubbles for its first 11 years, the names was changed to the Anchor in 1945.

Five faculty members have served the college a total of 102 years. Herbert C. Dixon, mathematics professor, heads the list with 24 years; Mrs. John M. Pollock, languages, 23; Miss Abbie Miller, fine arts, 21; Paul Stacy, biology, 18; and Dr. P. L. Elliott, president, 16.

Across The Desk

By: John Roberts, Quarterly Editor

Mr. Roberts

This issue completes five full years' publication of the Quarterly, with it being my pleasure and privilege to serve as editor of all but the initial issue. This issue is finding its way into the homes and hearts of some 4,000 of our former students, and would be received by many more if we had their address. In August, 1954, our alumni mailing list included 1,700 names. We have added the names and addresses of some 1,200 students since then, and approximately an equal number of former students whose addresses we secured through research of newspapers, telephone directories, and educational and church rolls.

Much credit in this effort should go to Mrs. Nancy Anthony Griffin, '53, publications secretary, who also very capably gathers much of the alumni news and in other ways contributes to our goal of making the Quarterly an ever better publication.

* * *

All news items, change of address, or other communication for the Quarterly should be addressed directly to your editor. You will have to expect a delay and possibility of loss of your communication if it is mis-directed to someone else and comes to the editor's office second hand.

Mealtime at Gardner-Webb is seeking to keep pace with the times, and perhaps it has always done so. Some of the Old Grads recall the Depression years menu of molasses, grits, greens, and liver mush. In many former years also there were the sumptuous banquets of country ham, fried chicken, and steak, and the good daily meals served by a friendly staff. For 29 years, 1915 to 1944, Mrs. Lillian Ritch was dietitian, and since 1948 Miss Janie Odom '30, has served in that capacity. A few days ago the college began a new cafeteria arrangement by turning over management of the cafeteria to Slater Food Service of Philadelphia, a nationally known company. Miss Odom will continue to serve the college, but in the employ of the Slater company.

We have been in the bookselling business now for two full years. It was in February, 1956, that Lengthened Shadows, a history of the college, came from the press. A few copies are still available and orders continue to come in. Last April another local book, Canaan In Carolina, was placed on sale by the college. Written by Dr. W. Wyman Washburn, college physician, it is a biography of the Rev. John W. Suttle, who served the college as trustee for 45 years. The supply of this book is almost exhausted too. Each of the books may be ordered through my office for $3.00.

Gardner-Webb is represented in foreign countries by several missionaries under auspices of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board. Faye Turnmire, '48, is in the Philippines; Marjorie Bridges, '48, and Bertie Lee Kendrick, 41, are in Hawaii; and Dr. Cecil Thompson, '49, is in Argentina. We are currently represented on the African continent too. Dr. and Mrs. W. Wyan Washburn are serving as interim medical missionaries in Nigeria. Dr. Washburn, college physician and administrator of the college clinic, is on a leave of absence until July 1.

Jean McSwain Teague (Mrs. Forrest) just can't seem to get away from teaching at her Alma Mater. (She graduated in 1953 and he one year later). She taught English in 1956-58, and was called back in December after illness had forced Mrs. Martha Coffey Dedmond, '52, to resign.

* * *

All the way from Iran came Mohammed Ali Pouryousefi who enrolled Jan. 19 as an engineering student. A handsome young Moslem, he plans to take a degree in petroleum engineering. Why? His hometown area of Iran is literally floating in oil.

* * *

Our faculty members have had several feature and study articles published recently. The December issue of Southern Baptist Educator published an article by Francis B. Dedmond entitled: "Problems of Writing a College History." Several newspapers in the Carolinas carried portions of an address made at the January faculty meeting by Prof. C. Allen Burris: "The Teaching of History in a Christian College." I had an article appear in the January 17 issue of Biblical Re- corder on: "What Are Students Like in the Seven Baptist Colleges of North Carolina?"

* * *

This issue finds us a little shaky, for two days before press day, Jan. 28, your editor became father of a daughter. Such things are always elating, but after three sons the shock was too much to comprehend all at once.

SNOWFALL FOR CHRISTMAS

A snowfall measuring between three and four inches fell at the college December 13, adding its hushed stillness to the deserted campus which the students had vacated earlier that day for Christmas holidays. With the students gone no snowball fights were staged, and all windowpanes remained intact.

Saddest of the sad were a handful of Florida residents who came "north" to school to enjoy a few snows and then missed by only a few hours because of their holiday trip. They can get comfort in the knowledge that Mr. Snowman has not failed the college but one winter in the last five, and should come through again this winter or next, or both.

SURELY THE TIME HAS COME

By: W. Lawson Allen

The time has come for all alumni to come to the aid of their Alma Mater! Our alumni love us, we know that. Some have been very lovely and careful to express that love in various ways.

Many have been influential in sending students our way.

Others have offered helpful suggestions for our guidance.

Still others have given time for the promotion of our varied programs.

Some have remembered to include us in wills and bequests.

Then there are a number who have shared with us to help us solve many a financial problem.

But we need you and all the others to rally behind Gardner-Webb.

How?

By influence - By careful concern - By -

Living endowment - - from $1 to $5,000 a year. You ask: "Will $1 help?" - Yes. For if we have a thousand who give only one dollar each year, we will have 1,000 persons interested and sharing with us here at the college. You may be able to share much more than $1. We urge you to do so.

Have you made a will? You answer: "I'm too young." No matter how young, you need a will.

Have you thought of remembering Gardner-Webb in your will in the sum of $100 or more? If we have 1,000 people who will place us in their wills for $100, some day each will live on in Christian education. Too, $100,000 will come to help in the task!

The time has come for you to help!
